GUIDE INTERNATIONAL OF ROSÉ WINE RULES

Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Rosé Wine Guide -is organised in Brignoles en Provence Verte (France) by the Association Inter Concours du Monde – 29 RUE DES TEMPLIERS– 83170 Brignoles (France).

Article 1: OBJECTIVE

This guide is for international rosé wines with geographical indication from all countries and all wine regions. For three countries, rosé wines are to be developed in accordance with the regulations of developing countries. As concern the French rosé wines, they must have made a statement of claim under section D. 644-5 and D. 646-6 of the Rural Code. Rosé wines without geographical indication are not allowed to compete.

The international guide is intended to highlight the intrinsic qualities of rosé wines from specific geographical areas and to distinguish those rosé wines of outstanding quality and that are exceptionally expressive of their appellation or origin.

This international guide is also intended to encourage and highlight international trades in the world of vines and rosé wine, the role of Terroir and trades related to wine tourism and the role of gastronomy and its trades.

The rosé wine prizes awarded in this international competition will:

- Provide all competitors with a representative evaluation of their products.
- Encourage the launch and sales of quality rosé wines both in terms of the product and its presentation.
- Promote the quality, diversity and excellence of the prize-winning rosé wines from different appellations or origins.
- Encourage the expansion of rosé wine and vine culture at an international level.
- Reinforce the identity and consumer perception of rosé wine internationally.
- By providing international references, communicate a message to 80% of consumers who are highly receptive to information on rosé wine.

Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine is organised in accordance with the rules outlined below.

Article 2: COMPETITORS

Rosé Wines provided by the following individuals or organizations will be accepted:

- Individual wine producers
- Individual cooperator wine producers
- Groups of wine producers
- Co-operative wineries
- Groups of co-operative wineries
- Wine brokers
- Wine producers and brokers
- Importers
- Distributors

Article 3: ENTRY REQUIREMENTS FOR THE ROSÉ WINES

The entry requirements are as follows:

- The rosé wines must be bottled and ready for sale, rosé wines packaged in wineskin of rosé wine are also allowed to participate.

- Their labels should conform to:

- The European Union regulation applied to EU member states.
- To the regulation in force in the country where the wine is produced and to the provisions regarding the importation of rosé wine applicable to non-EU member states.

Rosé wine entered for the competition should be available in quantities of at least 1080 liters. However, where the production volume of a given rosé wine is particularly low, the batch may consist of less than 1080 liters but should nonetheless be greater than 108 liters.

Article 4: SAMPLE PRESENTATION

To qualify for the competition, the samples of rosé wines presented should come from an homogeneous lot. The homogeneous batch is a set of sales units of a bottled or wine-skin which has been prepared and packaged under virtually identical conditions and which has similar organoleptic and analytical characteristics.

Samples should be presented as follows:

- Six bottles of 0.5 l to 1.5 l per sample or equivalent.
- The bottles and labels should be as per their usual commercial presentation.

Article 5: PROCEDURE FOR SENDING SAMPLES

Each sample should arrive before the specified deadline at the destination indicated on the registration form accompanied by her registration form, its analysis report as well as its label for the sample identification.

On arrival, each sample is checked against registration form received and its analysis report and his statement of claim for rosé wine produced in France benefiting from a IG.

The Association reserves the right to eliminate samples received after the closing date of receipt of samples indicated on the registration form. The expedition is made at the expense of the competitor (shipping, customs and taxes), the competitor is responsible for the proper storage of samples during transport. Any sample sent postage due will be refused. No sample refused will be returned.

Article 6: RULES OF ENTRY INTO THE GUIDE

Obligatory documents for entry:

- Registration form
- Certificate of analysis
- For France Statement of claim for rosé wines with a IG
- Registration fee

Association Inter Concours du Monde receives the samples, registration fees and eliminates those that do not comply with the guide rules.

A. REGISTRATION FORM

A registration form should be completed each rosé wine and sent before the closing date indicated on the form. The registration form should be accompanied by the registration fee and the certificate of analysis. The Association Inter Concours du Monde reserves the right to refuse applications arriving after the closing date for registration.

Any applications not accompanied by the registration fees and the certificate of analysis will be refused.

B. CERTIFICATE OF ANALYSIS

A certificate of analysis dating less than one year must accompany each sample. The certificate of analysis should contain information enabling the sample to be identified in addition to the following data:

- Alcoholic strength at 20 degrees centigrade (Vol %)
- Sugars (glucose + fructose) g/l
- Total acidity en meq/l
- Volatile acidity en meq/l
- Total sulphur dioxide (SO₂) total (mg/l)

- Free sulphur dioxide (SO₂) (mg/l)
- For sparkling wines, (CO₂) pressure in bottle (hPa).

The competitor and the competition organizer each retain a sample of the prize-winning rosé wine along with the certificate of analysis. These samples will, if required, be made available to control agencies for a period of one year and registration forms and analysis for 5 years.

Article 7: COMPETITION RULES GUIDE

Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Rosé Wine Guide e of Rosé Wine - Electronic – THE IGRÉW-E may be the subject of several tasting sessions in a year and includes four sessions called:

- « PRIMA »: from January to March - «AUGUSTO»: from April to June
- « ALTA »: from July to September - « XIAO »: from October to December

For each session, the jury will meet as often as necessary and conduct a taste selection. The samples will be presented in an totally anonymous fashion to the judging panels. Upon arrival, the sample is identified by a label on the bottle indicating the name of the competition year, the registration number label (Producer - No. Arrival Sample). Samples will not ring Cetie 35-100 TR or crown ring 29 will be reconditioned in a bottle with this type of ring. The implementation is done anonymously by bagging the sample to be presented to the tasters. The bag containing the sample is black baggy and color. The sample is presented without overcap on the bag containing the sample is indicated on a label, the anonymous number (jury, series and item number).

The samples will be grouped according to their category (color, type, grape variety) and will be tasted in series and / or mini series in the series. In a category, if the number of competitors is less than three at the time of registration, the category may be either deleted or grouped at the organizer's discretion. The affected samples may also be re-registered in a generic category.

The technical director transmits to the general commissioner the elements of anonymity. The general commissioner makes all the arrangements so that the samples subjected to the tasting are rendered strictly anonymous. He may make any transfer, change of packaging, masking or any other operation necessary to preserve the strict anonymity of the samples.

The organizers reserve the right to cancel a category for which an insufficient number of samples have been received: three samples minimum from three different competitors.

Each rosé wine tasted is scored individually and not comparatively.

The rosé wines will be blind-tasted and for their intrinsic properties. The total number of judges is decided according to the number of samples presented. The marking scheme is a point by point system as used in the official OIV tasting sheet out of 100 points.

The Technical Commission of the Inter Concours du Monde designates nominally tasters members of each jury through its database of international tasters. The tasters selected to participate as a juror must belong to one of five panels below established by the technical committee. All tasters - Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Rosé Wine Guide e of Rosé WineE - have wine tasting skills each at their college. Each rosé wine is tasted by a panel of five judges in a jury, each jury is composed by 2 French jurors and 3 foreign jurors or by 3 French jurors and 2 foreign jurors - least 2/3 are skilled tasters. These are skilled tasters from each of four professional panels detailed below represent trades of the wine and wine. We will also find a juror of "oenophile" panel. The choice to integrate oenophiles is a deliberate because this panel reflects the tastes and expectations of actual and futur consumers. The internal regulations specify tasters designation modalities that juries and the criteria by which their skills are appreciated.

Each juror is from a different country and the Technical Committee strives to meet a wide geographical dispersion and panel times.

- Panel 1: oenologists and/or winemakers; Presidents of the judging panels
- Panel 2: production and affiliates, Secretary; person working upstream of the wine industry: wine, laboratory manager, viticulture technician, glass, corker, printer, etc...
- Panel 3: distribution, commercialization & catering trades,
- Panel 4: education, training and media;
- Panel 5: wine lovers.

Inter Concours du Monde Association collects an affidavit stating jury members their links, direct or indirect, with businesses, schools, professional organizations or associations whose activities, products or interests may affect the wines entered. A judge may not judge her own rosé wines. Association Inter Concours du Monde appoints a president, oenologist or possesses an equivalent degree or having demonstrated a high qualification and experience for tasting in the wine business and secretary for each judging panel. Juries operate under the authority of the President; it may be a member of the jury. It provides, in conjunction with the Technical Manager, the Commissioners of the competition, the organizer, the overall functioning of the jury and the right tasting. The Audit Board, which does not participate in the tastings, from the Association's Executive Committee Inter Concours du Monde is responsible for verifying compliance with the regulation and the smooth running of the Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine by sample preparation, organization and implementation of the tasting.

Inter Concours du Monde Association for Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine - provides, through an adequate judgment record, control, operation and publication of results. The Association Inter Concours du Monde for Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine organizes the monitoring, exploitation and publication of results using an appropriate evaluation form.

Article 8: AWARDS

The number of awards made by category and for the entire Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Rosé Wine Guide may not exceed one third of the samples presented by category and for all each session. These distinctions will be awarded, according to the jury, to wines that meet the organoleptics quality classes. Association Inter Concours du Monde - Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine define the prizes awarded by the judging panels :

- " Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine – Diamant "Year + naming the session" overall score> 85 points 100 points
- " Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine "- Silver "Year + naming the session" between 80 and 84.9 points out of 100 points .

Prize-winners will be informed by post or email. Association Inter Concours du Monde - Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine furnish the prize-winners with a document stating the type of prize awarded, the rosé wine's identity, the batch volume, the category of wine the note of tasting, the name and address of the competitor, name of guide. Labels indicating the type of prize awarded will be available from Inter Concours du Monde - Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine Association, and may be affixed to bottles of the relevant wines. The number of labels supplied will depend on the production volume stated on the application form. No other references or representation of the award are permitted.

At the end of the competition, the award-winning wines only, according to their score, can be distinguished by particular mentions, Grand Prix and / or Trophy. Below is the schedule of particulars according to the ratings obtained for the award-winning wines.

- * GRAND PRIX, wine having obtained the high note of the whole contest.
- * Trophée Diamant Inoubliable, award-winning wine with 96 points at 100 points
- * Trophée Diamant Mémorable, award-winning wine with 91 points to 95 points
- * Trophée Diamant Admirable, award-winning wine with 85 to 90 points
- * Trophée Argent Remarquable , award winning wine with 80 to 84 points

These particulars may not appear on the label.

These award-winning wines will however benefit from a specific communication according to their particular mention (media, press, internet, specialized sites, etc.).

No particular mention can be attributed if the wine is not part of the list.

Inter Concours du Monde Association - Guide International du Vin Rosé / International Guide of Rosé Wine - reserves the exclusive right to monitor the use of the awards for commercial purposes. All non-authorized use of the competition logo, awards and prizes are strictly prohibited. The results of the international competition will be communicated to the general public using all methods of communication, insofar as is possible.
